THE OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE STUDENT BODY OF WINTHROP COLLEGE

ROCK HILL, SOUTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1930

VOL. 16, NO. 18

Editorial Asides

For some reason February has always appeared to us and this year it seems a particularly good month. It often brings the first February flowers of spring, which are always delightful—they seem so warm to even try to bloom before winter is definitely over!

The breath of spring and the forthright, a tulip tree, and bulbs ready to burst with color all serve to make the month more pleasant. And such also are appreciated now when the faculty seems unusually determined to "educate" us.

And yes, of course, the holidays—February has such grand old-time traditions. It is the month of the Washington's birthday with its patriotic sentiments... and Valentine's day with its candy and just plain sweet sentimentality... Ah, such is February.

Robert Quillen in his column in The Charlotte Observer of February 15, made some interesting comments on the honor system in Quillen Colleges. We pass a few on here of them on to you for what they may be worth. Personally we would like to see his proof for the second statement quoted.

"The honor system, like other idealistic systems, is good only when used by good people—by people who know what honor is and prize it above personal gain."

"Four out of five college students cheat or violate their way through high school; have no hunger for more knowledge or else no capacity to absorb it; and can hope to get through college only by cheating or persuading their professors to cheat."

The death of O. O. McIntyre came as a shock to all of America, and we know that we shall miss him greatly. Many of our McIntyre-Winthrop population helped make for his estimated 150,000 readers of his syndicated column "New York Day By Day."

His writings may not last, but his name may fade in the next tomorrow but he is today greatly mourned and missed by people all over America. Why?

Because he daily gave them vivid pictures of New York, of celebrities as the "zoo" like to picture them—because he could describe the "good old days" so attractively that they seemed to have been Utopian; because he could be whimsical and sentimental in a daily newspaper and make millions love it!

Was he a great writer? Perhaps not, but he was undoubtedly a personality with a genius for making friends in the printed word and we of the supposedly hard-boiled generation will miss his sentimentality.

We print the following not to belittle the achievements of those who made distinguished grades last semester, but rather to commend to those who did not come out so brilliantly. They are the converts of noted psychologists and educators of Chicago and Northwestern university.

"The child life of the child who always gets A's in school may develop into anything but a bad record."

"That sort of child is likely to grow up to be a confederate—a person who never blames nor blames the sort of person who accepts what is told him without question."

"Seventeen" To Be Presented by T. S. Seniors Feb. 25

Bass, Roddey Star In Play By Booth Tarkington

The Winthrop Training School senior class will present "Seventeen," a play by Booth Tarkington, next Friday night at 8 o'clock in the Training School auditorium.

The play was first given in the playhouse in Chicago in 1917. A hundred performances were made there and it had an eight months run in New York.

The plot of the play centers around the Baxter home in which there is a son, Willie, seventeen years old about to graduate from high school and a younger daughter, Ann. It is a story of youth, love, comedy, and romance.

The cast of characters is as follows: William Sylvester Baxter, Mr. Baxter; Arthur Thrallkill; Genevieve, Clarence Fowles; Johnnie Weston, Harry Burdett; George Cropper, Dan Hodge; Mr. Parcher, Tom Greed; Willie Baxter, Bill Culp; Ann Baxter, Ann K. Hodge; Lola Pratt, Ross Sims; Mary Brock, Emeline Gorton; Ethel Bole, Margaret Terry; Mary Brooks, Maria Spencer; Mrs. Baxter, Rebecca Sealy.

Miss Willington, sponsor of the senior class, is in charge of the play which is being coached by Martha Jo Jones and Nancy Beatty of Winthrop college as an Alpha Psi Omega project.

Music will be furnished by the Winthrop Training School orchestra under the direction of A. D. Lajole, assisted by Virginia Campbell.

S. C. Methodist Students Meet at St. John's

Noted Leaders From Neighboring States To Speak At Meet

The South Carolina Methodist student conference will be held for the twelfth year at St. John's Methodist church February 18-20 for the purpose of bringing together the students of all colleges of South Carolina for inspiration, fellowship, and discussion, according to Mrs. Reese Massey, director of the Wesley Foundation.

The conference will be held under the auspices of the department of schools and colleges of the general board of Christian education at Nashville, Tenn., and by the two conference boards of Christian education of South Carolina.

The theme, because of the celebration of the Alders Gate commemoration, will be "Methodism, Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow."

The leaders of the conference, noted Methodists from North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee, will be: Dr. O. Ray Jordan, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church of Winston-Salem; Dr. Harvey C. Brown of Nashville, director of the Methodist student movement; Dr. John W. Eberhardt of Columbia, former pastor of St. John's Methodist church; Dr. C. C. Norton of Oxford College; Rev. L. D. Gillispie of Spartanburg; Rev. J. O. Smith of Laurens; Rev. B. Byrd Herbert of Camden; Rev. J. B. Poyles of Orangeburg; Rev. Mrs. Herbert Poyles of Orangeburg; Rev. H. C. Chambers of Clemmons College; Rev. H. C. Ritten of Spartanburg; Rev. D. H. Montgomery of Wofford college.

New Winthrop Trustee Is Member of Phi Beta Kappa

Scholar, business man, traveler, legislator, and educator is Winthrop's newest trustee, W. B. Davis of Liberty, who has been elected by the South Carolina legislature to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of J. Strom Thurmond of Edgefield, recently appointed to a circuit court judgeship.

Mr. Davis is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, has met the Senate requirements for a Ph. D. degree, and has passed the Ph. D. requirements in French and German.

After graduating from the University of North Carolina in 1908 with an A. B. degree and special certificates of proficiency in Latin, Greek and German, Mr. Davis was professor of Latin and French in Catawba college, N. C., for one year. He was an instructor in Latin and mathematics the next year at Davidson college, N. C. He received his M. A. degree from Davidson in 1910, having done his graduate work in Latin and English.

Most of Mr. Davis' post-graduate work was done at the University of South Carolina and some at the University of California.

Varied Experience As Teacher
A native of North Carolina, Mr. Davis came to this state in 1920 to be principal of the largest school of its kind in the state at that time, Logan grammar school of the Columbia city schools. He stayed there eight years, after which he was superintendent of the Liberty schools from 1923 to 1929.

After thirty years of varied and successful experience as a teacher, principal, and superintendent in the schools of North and South Carolina, Mr. Davis entered the future business in Liberty. Since 1929 he has been president and treasurer of the Liberty Schools and Manufacturing company.

For many years Mr. Davis conducted educational tours during the summer months. He has traveled over 200,000 miles with touring parties in America, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Alaska, and Europe.

The new trustee is a member of the following fraternal orders: Elks, Masons, Shriners, Rotary club, and Lions club.

Mr. Davis was elected to the House of Representatives from Pickens county in 1926. He is chairman of the public regulations committee and a member of the education, public printing, and state hospital committees.

Nettie Wells, junior of Sumner, won the impromptu contest at Debaters' League Wednesday afternoon in Clio hall.

Thirty-two members of the speaker's group of the league participated in the contest. Judges and timekeepers were from the activity group.

Miss Katherine Ritchie of Abbeville, chairman of speech and entertainment; Elizabeth Cottingham of Dillon, floor manager; Mary Robinson of Pageland, chairman of rooms; and Louise Cawthon of Rowlesville, chairman of post office.

Music At Next Chapel

A musical program under the direction of Dr. W. B. Roberts will be given in chapel next Wednesday.

Post Heads Group Editing Physical Education Syllabus

Recent Publication Of S. C. Education Dept. Recognized

A recent publication of the South Carolina department of education is a state syllabus of physical education prepared by a committee of physical education teachers of which Miss Julia H. Post, head of the Winthrop physical education department served as chairman.

Among present and past Winthrop faculty members who worked on the committee are Miss Lillian Welles, Miss Margaret Hoffman, Miss Frances Hoffman, Miss Susan Hamrick, and Miss Jane Couch.

The 100-page syllabus was prepared with the following purposes in mind, as stated by the committee's preface: "To explain the underlying principles of the health and physical education program, to show its place in a general education program, to present the content and scope of an adequate program, to present methods and procedures by means of which such a program can be incorporated in the schools of the state."

The foreword was written by John O. Kelly, former state high school supervisor, now Winthrop registrar.

Part one of the syllabus defines physical education, treating legal provisions, time allotment, aims and objectives, and the future of physical education.

Administrative aspects of a physical education program are presented in section two; where, among other aspects, equipment, scheduling, teaching personnel and measurement of results are discussed. The elementary and secondary school programs are treated in parts three and four.

General programs, separate programs for boys and girls, and social activities are handled in separate chapters of the secondary school section.

The syllabus was reviewed as a recent book in the February Journal of Physical Education, publication of the National Physical Education association.

"It should serve as an excellent guide for the high school people," said the reviewer.

Kurt Jooss, Fritz Cohen Direct Cast In Artist Number

Winthrop college will present the Jooss European Ballet, seventh number on the Arles Courtes program, Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Main auditorium.

The Jooss Ballet, now making its third tour of the United States, was founded 12 years ago in a little provincial town in Germany. At first the company was made up entirely of Germans, but has now become an international troupe with headquarters at Weidach, at Darrington hall, South Devonshire, England.

The company has 32 members, representative of 15 nationalities: Dutch, Hungarian, Swiss, Swedish, German, and English. The youngest member is twenty-year-old Noelle de Moos of Holland.

Wine Dance Revue
The Jooss Ballet was a result of the combined efforts of Kurt Jooss as artistic director and creator of ballets, and Fritz Cohen, as musical director. The ballet was introduced at the International Congress of the Dance, held in Paris in 1922. Their production, "The Green Table," was awarded first prize at this Congress.

During an engagement at the Paris Exposition this past summer, Kurt Jooss and seven of the principal dancers received gold medals in commemoration of the fifth centenary of their prize-winning debut in 1922.

The feature of the present tour will be their original production, "The Green Table," which is a satire upon the rivalry and humor of international diplomacy. In this ballet Mr. Jooss sets forth arguments for world peace as interpreted by the modern dance.

Jack Sealy, Local Tenor, Sings in Westminster Choir

Winthrop Girls And Town Folk Give Ovation To Young Soloist of S. C. Negro Song

Thrilled by the superb singing of the Westminster Choir under Dr. John Philip Williams, an entire staid audience sat captivated throughout a program of modern American symphonies, chorales, and solo songs in the Winthrop college auditorium last Thursday night.

The greatest applause came when Jack Sealy, former W. T. S. student, had finished singing the solo part in "Waterbury." The audience of Winthrop girls and townspeople responded with a volume of applause that was nothing short of deafening in demanding an encore. Jack has been in training for a year and a half at Princeton, N. J.

That night was really Jack's night, for it marked his first public appearance since his graduation in 1926. Concerning his feeling at coming home in the "local boy makes good" role, Jack could only say: "It was the greatest thrill I ever had."

Members of the choir said they "liked the audience, its warmth, its enthusiasm" and called it inspiring. Many of them had never been in South Carolina before, but they had only complimentary things to say about it.

An Architect's Drawing of Winthrop's New Home Economics Building For Which Contracts Have Been Let

(Courtesy The Yorkville Enquirer)
The picture above is an architect's drawing of Winthrop's new home economics building, which is expected to be completed before the end of 1930. Contracts were awarded Saturday, February 3, to the J. A. McDevitt Company of Charlotte, for the construction of the building, and to J. L. Powers of Bennettsville for the installation of the heating and plumbing. This building, which contains four stories plus adequate attic space, will also house the home demonstration and home economics research departments. Connected with the main part of the building is the nursery school, which is seen on the left in the drawing. Construction on the building is expected to begin in the very near future.

New Dark Room Will "Lighten" Johnsonians

For those who are in the dark about the newly renovated room and partitioning of the Main Auditorium for space in the basement of Main building, comes the answer—it is the new Johnsonian dark room. For those who are still in the dark, comes the explanation—it is the work-shop of the girls who keep the college weekly in pictures.

Credit for this exclusive photography laboratory goes to Miss Margaret Bell of the chemistry department. Formerly Johnsonian pictures had to be developed in the physics dark-room in Tillman hall at odd moments when it was not in use by the various classes.

In her photography class last semester Miss Bell stimulated interest in working out a Johnsonian dark-room project more conveniently located to the Publications room and one with equipment of its own.

A "junk" store-room in the basement of Main building was cleaned of sewing machines, mops, plaster, buns, boxes, and light bulbs. With the aid of the Winthrop carpenters, painters, and electricians, this storage place was turned into a dark-room well equipped with cabinets, shelves, and a winding passageway for proper lighting.

A committee of girls, supervised by Miss Bell, from the class in photography, is responsible for making or getting necessary equipment. As the project is "in the process," full equipment for the dark-room is still incomplete.

The partitioning of the laboratory a reception room and studio where portraits of students may be made. So if you are elected student government president unexpectedly, and haven't a "Bessie" handy, Margie McArthur and her staff of photographers will be at your service in The Johnsonian studio.

McCormac Speaks To Secondary Ed. Club

Eleven New Members Initiated Into Education Group Thursday

D. Leon McCormac, principal of Wardlaw Junior high school, Columbia, spoke at a meeting of the Secondary Education club yesterday afternoon in Johnson hall at 4:30.

Eleven new members were initiated.

While in the community, the practice teachers attend church, being allowed to go away only one weekend; and also attend all teachers' meetings—county, school, and regional.

They are observed each week by Miss York, and if possible, come in to Rock Hill in a special weekly conference with Miss York and the supervisor teachers of their communities.

It is the aim of all participating student teachers to leave something of lasting value to their schools, such as illustrative material or any other helpful things.

"The more experience the girls have, the better they can adjust themselves when they get out into the real profession of teaching," said Miss York.

"I'll tell anyone that its divine," counsels one recently experienced "home educator," "but don't quote me about the 'outstanding'..."

Ordination invitations will be ordered about March 1, according to Jean McFarley, under president, of a class meeting last Friday.

The invitations, selected by a committee last year, will be engraved by Everett Wadley and Company of Richmond, Va.

high-spirited, and a strong character.

"Man's honor is in his own keeping," said Halls as she ended her part of the discussion.

Rallie Sue Pully brought the problem closer home in a talk on "Honesty at Winthrop." Here the subjects of cheating, stealing, and slander were primary.

"Many remarks and pretty good forms of slander, you know," said Rallie. The Cabinet expressed views, facts, and opinions on the above three topics.

Harriet Morgan sought to tell the group "What We Can Do About It." She explained the influence of setting example, ordinary talk, publicity, and forwarding public opinion.

The Y Cabinet resolved to use its influence in establishing general "honor consciousness." Mary O'Dell's closing words were, "Let's not let the matter drop."

Y Pushes On In Honor Drive

The old German adage, "If a man loses his wealth, he loses nothing. If a man loses his health, he loses something. If a man loses his character, he loses everything" will furnish the inspiration to Y members as they push forward with their honor campaign among Winthrop students. The choice was made at a Y meeting Monday evening.

"What is a Code of Honor?" was presented by Halse Stone. He described honor as an inner feeling, self-respect, avowal of all wrongs.

THESE DUCKING PARTIES ARE THE RAGE
When I first heard this story I wondered if Catherine Anne really was in her sleep. But here's the true story!

There was a party swimming in the pool the other night until Catherine Anne quit the crowd to pull up her hair for the night and returned to the side of the pool covered in a soft, fluffy sleeping cap. Then it was a hilarious party.

To some of the girls still "in the swim" Anne's costume appeared, on so sleep, but just right for swimming. So Anne went for a swim, although it was definitely not her own idea. In fact they say she went over the side like a captive forced by planks to walk the plank, except that she put up an unusually good fight before she hit the water.

This week's favorite sport—grackling for Junior Fellows!

SAFE SWIMMING (?)
Reports have it that someone has been talking someone into handing over the gymnasium key for swimming at night without permission. As you know, there are regular hours for recreational swimming as posted on the gymnasium bulletin board. Students wishing to swim at night may do so by getting a permission slip from the gymnasium office. This slip, when presented to the night watchman will legally secure the key to the pool. Students are not allowed to swim at any time, however, without two adults on duty out of the pool. These regulations are for our own safety, so it follows that the "safe" thing for us to do is to comply with them!

GOOD TECHNIQUE REQUIRES GOOD COURTESY
The French "dixie" have been very lately. I say this in order to make sure we've done such a good job of getting up the courts that we can now see the pool, or whatever we want to go. Please, let's wear tennis shoes on the court!

DANCERS—INTERNATIONAL
Members of Miss Post's folk dancing group have been asked to do some French numbers in connection with a Chinese play to be given by French by members of the Theta, Gamma Phi, and Phi Kappa Phi fraternities of nationalities. The play, which will be given at the gymnasium, they report a minor difficulty with the play. It seems that the Chinese don't walk, dance, or act just as we do—and the French talk a little differently.

HEAT TO OIL
They've had some dandy new pencil sharpeners recently installed in the gymnasium offices. I understand that secretary, Mr. Bert Harris, is expected to keep the new machinery oiled and running smoothly. The physical ed. exercises are numbered, you know—according to rank, according to merit.

PEPPING UP FOR THE MEET
The freshmen and juniors are looking in the approaching swimming meet in that they've already elected a captain and manager for their class teams. Captain Myrtle Williams and Manager "Wendie" Dargatz have been chosen of the freshmen. Louise Simmons and Catherine Anne Law, "been chosen to head the juniors."

These freshmen and juniors are really enthusiastic over swimming, so you'd better watch out, soph and seniors, or you may be sunk!

AND THE DAWN, TOO!
Physical ed. majors weekend at the stock got up at 4:30 Sunday morning to see the cows milked at the farm. But they weren't long in observing the first part of Ben Franklin's "early to bed, early to rise" maxim, having already observed the last.

Freshmen Fax Pass

Receives Canadian Notice

Winthrop has long been a leader in the field of education. She has done many outstanding things professionally, but it took the fax pass of a sophisticated freshman for Winthrop to "e" come international news.

New Summer School Emphasis Wins Approval of Educators

Coates And Dominick Confer On New Plans . . . Extend Congratulations To Dr. Magginnis For Meeting Teacher Needs

Advance triets of Winthrop's 1928 Summer School plans which were sent to county superintendents in South Carolina and other high schools in education over the state are bringing in encouraging responses, according to Dr. W. D. Magginnis, director of the Summer School.

The brief presented plans for vitalizing instruction for teachers this summer by offering materials and guidance in integrating subject matter fields. Emphasis in these classes will be on giving teachers practical assistance in working out their individual problems in integrations and in vitalizing their teaching materials and techniques.

In a letter to Dr. Magginnis, J. P. Coates, secretary of the South Carolina Education association pointed out that "I think you have something worthwhile in the new type of summer school which will fit the everyday classroom needs of our teachers. . . . The work you have outlined at Winthrop will certainly meet that need."

Dr. B. Dominick, director of the Bureau of Certification for Teachers, who has previously conferred with Mr. Coates on Winthrop's summer school plans, indicated his equally enthusiastic approval.

Regular academic courses will not be affected in this new emphasis on the practical aspects for classroom teachers interested in keeping their instruction in step with modern teaching progressiveness.

LOCAL YOUNG SINGERS WITH WESTMINSTER CHOIR

He went on to give, between handclaps and nods with the reception guests, his opinion on modern music which, he convinced, is here to stay.

"As for jazz, I think it is a little like pepper and salt—very nice, but when you wouldn't want to live on it."

The girls and boys gave their opinions on art and everything. A few snatches from their conversations indicated their versatility and personality.

Manager Vincent Watson (who has read only half of "Gone With the Wind") would like to have a country church with writing on its side when he finishes school—Mr. Watson's "love to dance, though his music has a rather difficult time with Southern girls on the floor."

His ambition is to be a symphony orchestra conductor—"Miss New York" is interested in dramatic art, literature. She's not sure how she got it in the chair. "Just tried out, I guess, just like the others."

"Miss Pennsylvania" couldn't understand the best of the February night and was rather relieved that Winthrop girls were surprised at the premature arrival of spring too.

And "Mr. Ohio" not only likes to play the piano, tennis, and basketball, but gallantly stated he would like to have an Alms Master like Winthrop!

All of them agreed that being in the Westminster Choir was just about the best thing that had ever happened to them. They love the life, the work, and the experience of singing together, and their love for the school and songs is beautifully sincere and unselfish.

No Paper Next Week

Because Winthrop Journalists, the printers of The Johnsonian, nor our advertisers can contribute to both a regular issue next week and a 30-page high school issue March 4, the former is being omitted.

With this issue the senior staff makes its last. The new editor and staff will put out their first effort March 11. The Johnsonian, directed by Prof. R. A. Furr, are in charge of the annual high school issue. There will be no paper February 25.

Johnson Hall Gets New Hit Parade of Records

Tommy Dorsey, Hal Kemp, Skip Fields, or Benny Goodman! They're all on the new recordings the Y has recently bought for the Johnson hall victrola.

Perhaps "Mama, That Moon is There Again" is one you've wanted to learn the words to for so long. "The Dinky Doodle" is just new for the Little Apple. If the mood is sentimental, "You're a Sweetheart," "The One Rose," or "True C" selection" would probably help.

In fact the collection is a hit parade—"Nobody's Sweetheart," "More Than You Know," "I Built Love to Kiss You Goodnight," "I'd Like to Be a Millionaire," "You Took the Words Right Out of My Heart," "Blue Bird," "Minnie the Moocher's Wedding Day."

Everybody's hoping "So Many Memories" will last long enough for each of us to get a flutter on one of those days "what later" just didn't come. To listen, to dance, to dream—the Y has twenty-three new records to keep you along.

Magginnis Speaks in Edgefield

Dr. W. D. Magginnis, head of the education department, will speak on local educational problems in South Carolina at the Fairfield county teachers' meeting to be held in Winthrop, February 22.

Georgia Debators Refuse To Admit Talent of Girls

It was difficult for one to slip a word in edgewise in the many-voiced conversation with the debaters from the University of Georgia after their non-decision debate with Winthrop Monday night.

There were four of them sitting around in Clio hall: Cam Dorey Jr., Milton Brown, Morris Abram, and Harry Baxter, accompanied by their coach, Mr. Eddison, and they were surrounded by, and engaged in conversation with the writers of the blue.

The teams are making a series of college debates their first opponents being Winthrop students. It seems that debating at the university is a part of the work of the literary societies. So great is the rivalry between the two long established societies, and the Georgia students that they almost literally have separate rules and barriers of separation with no trespassing allowed.

Mr. Dorey claims no relationship with the celebrated Tommy; but Mr. Baxter, none with the famous Warner. However, the latter, when asked if he should like to be associated with the latter, said he would be satisfied with merely looking like the movie star. Whereupon Mr. Dorey said he didn't believe it, since Mr. Baxter should be quite content with looking the Little Howard.

Mr. Abram flattered that he doesn't consider girls as competent, and that he'd much rather have boys for opponents, since then he would never bother about politeness for politeness's sake.

But, no matter what their beliefs, they all confessed that they liked Winthrop very much, girl debaters and all, and would remember their stay with pleasure.
